

MILES O'REILLY QUITS HIS JOB AS POLICE CAPTAIN

Veteran Gets Retirement After
39 Years' Activity as Policeman.

SAYS HE'S NEARING 70.

Made Record as a "Cleaner
Up" and Disciplinarian in
Two Boroughs.

St. Miles O'Reilly, thirty-nine years policeman, went to the office of Deputy Commissioner Dillon in Brooklyn and asked leave to retire. After Commissioner Dillon, to whom the petition was sent, granted it at 3 o'clock this afternoon, Miles O'Reilly had every post of honor and responsibility for which a policeman is eligible. He has been a "cleaner up" for return commissioners and used his position for officials with different standards. A strict disciplinarian, he was always growing at the men under him, but in time of trouble they were fighting tigers at his command. Born in Ireland Sept. 27, 1843, Capt. O'Reilly came to this country towards the close of the Civil war and enlisted in the Union army. The date of his birth is that given in his application for appointment; old friends of his parents insist that he was born the Night of the Big Wind, Jan. 6, 1839, and that he held out four years on the Brooklyn department.

VETERAN REALIZES AT LAST
HE'S GETTING OLD.

It was his boast until this year that he had seen the river Shannon overflow twice in one season—the only time it ever happened in a hundred years, mind ye. But the Shannon has been out of its banks twice this year and is now in flood and Capt. O'Reilly feels that he is getting to be an old man.

Commissioner Blumhagen made O'Reilly an inspector several years ago, but the command of an inspection district proved too much of a tax on a man who had governed the Tenderloin, the Mercer street disciplinary precinct and the Oak street station with a slam bang activity which was the marvel of New York. He asked to be reassigned as a captain. The traffic squad in Brooklyn was put in his charge and then Prospect Park. Commissioner Waldo acted favorably on his request to be assigned to the Amity street station, the quietest in Brooklyn.

O'Reilly had a life long war with crooked gamblers. He was the first police captain to close the Park Row resorts. He did not have to raid them. He simply let it be known that they must close. He was in trouble with the whole underworld in 1902, when he publicly accused men of his command of taking graft from gamblers and leading when they should be on duty. Chief Dervy attempted to discipline him by sending him to Canastota, but the cure did not take. O'Reilly kept on talking.

Soon after he was made a policeman O'Reilly married Miss Catherine Bagley. She died last fall, leaving him two sons and two daughters.

SLAYER'S SUICIDE IN CELL CHEATS THE DEATH CHAIR.

Twice Convicted of Murder, Clayton Kills Himself With Potato Knife in Freehold Jail.

(Special to The Evening World.)
FREEHOLD, N. J., April 10.—Charles D. Clayton, forty-one years old, who was convicted yesterday of the murder of Policeman Charles F. Lipinotti at Asbury Park, cut his throat to-day with a potato peeling knife and died almost instantly. Chief Justice Gummers had announced that he would pronounce sentence Monday.

An officer who had guarded Clayton had gone off duty and a trusty was set to watch the prisoner in his cell. Jail Warden Michael Quiry had visited the cell five minutes before Clayton committed suicide. The knife used is of a different pattern than those in the jail kitchen.

As a precaution Clayton was placed in a different cell last night than any he had heretofore occupied, so that it is certain the knife was smuggled to him since the verdict of the jury was pronounced. Clayton was previously convicted of the crime on Feb. 1, 1912, and sentenced to death in the electric chair the week beginning March 11, 1912, but obtained a new trial after he had spent ten months in the death house.

RIDE TO ESCAPE POLICE COSTS EARLE HIS LIFE.

Passenger in Wrecked Auto Dies in Hospital From a Fractured Skull.

Lewis Earle of No. 135 Madison avenue died to-day at Sydenham Hospital of injuries received when he was a passenger in the auto of his friend, Ferdinand D. Benner. They attempted to escape from Police John Meade of Traffic Squad C, who was trying to summon Benner to court for speeding Monday night. The car, crossing Madison avenue at Ninetieth street, struck a Madison avenue car and Earle's skull was fractured. Benner was thirty-four years old. Earle, who was thirty-four years old, was a leader in the movement to exclude pushcarts from narrow Nassau street. He was active in the market in which he sold and valued parcels of real estate figures. He was the grandson of Judge Baylis Earle of South Carolina and the son of William Edward Earle, a lawyer of Washington, D. C. With the beginning of the automobile trade Mr. Earle promoted many of the largest foreign importations of cars to this country.

A Disposal of Our $5 to $10
Tailored Hats for Women, at $3, $5 and $7

Why such generous concessions so early in the season? you will naturally ask. And your curiosity will be still greater when you learn that on an average these Hats have not been here for longer than three or four weeks.

Just because we are constantly changing our collection of styles, the Gimbel Millinery Shop has become the most famous in America—it is our ruling that new modes shall be presented every day. And as we are now making ready for a large Summer display, we decided to dispose of these Hats in a jiffy.

Typical English Walking Hats, turbans, sailors and smart mushroom styles in Tagal, combinations of French crepe and Tagal, silk and fancy straws, chiffon and Tagal—trimmed with ostrich quills, cabochons of fruits and flowers, also ribbons, silks and velvets.

The new shades of blue are much in evidence, also the linen shades, grays, browns, green, rose, purple and black.

A Remarkable Gathering of Men's and Women's HOSIERY for 20,880 Feet

A large proportion of women are wearing pumps of one kind or another—which, of course, means silk stockings. And when a man graduates to low shoes for the Summer he naturally requires silk socks.

There are 10,440 pairs of Men's and Women's Hosiery of the better grades in this splendid Springtime offering—some samples, others surplus lots—all perfect and desirable. And at fine savings—buy tomorrow by the half dozen pairs.

Men's 45c to 75c Sample Socks, 28c Pair
This is the whole Spring sample line of a very well-known concern. There are plain cotton and lisle thread socks, in black and colors. Also silk clock and embroidered lisle thread and pure silk, in black and colors.

Men's 65c Silk Socks, 35c Pair
These are pure silk, in fancy two-toned effects, and vertical stripes, and sell regularly at 65c. Special at 35c pair, or three pairs for $1.

Men's Pure Silk Socks, 50c Pair
These socks are not reduced in price—but sufficiently remarkable for half-a-dollar to be included in this announcement. In black and handsome Summer colorings to match a man's new neckties; high spliced heels and reinforced lisle thread soles.

Women's Black Silk Stockings, 80c Pair
As you can see for yourself, these stockings are of the $1.50 grade—some even of $2 quality. In sheer and medium weights, with 4-in. garter welt tops and reinforced silk soles. At 80c pair they are very unusual.

Women's 50c Gauze Lisle Stockings, 32c Pair
A particularly very good grade of our own importation. In black only, sizes 8½ to 10½.

You Should See the Generous Width of These Extra-Size Silk Petticoats
At $2.95

If your hips are abnormally large, you can be certain of getting a Petticoat (and you will want several at this unusual price) that will not expand and hike up in the back.

Messaline and taffeta with combination tailored and accordion pleated flounces, and you are not restricted to black, for there are also the new colors.

14 Styles in Regular-Size Silk Petticoats, $2.95
Eight of these have underruffles of the silk—this feature, always denotes a much higher price.

Those with silk Jersey tops have messaline flounces, but there are many others entirely of messaline or taffeta.

You surely can select the various Petticoats that you need, for there are plain and changeable colors, as well as black.
